Wants to Keep ALL His Customers Interested

By MR. MUNNIGRAM

The Famous Profit-Wizard of the Standard Classified Advertising Columns.

"Mr. Munnigram," said a business man yesterday to the famous Profit Wizard of the Standard, "in my kind of business each kind of customer turns up only once in a long while. That is, I can't sell to the individual customer every day, or every week, or every month. It may be a year before I get an order from a customer, even if the previous order has given me fine satisfaction. I read with a great deal of interest, and I have thought over very earnestly, what you said the other day in the Standard, to a certain business man. And now, I am putting my own special business problem up to you, and would like to have your opinion."

"With me, it isn't so much an urgent need of new customers. I guess I have enough steady customers, but what I do want is to keep all my regular customers interested all the time. I have tried mailing a special circular to them every month or two, but it does not seem to interest them very much. I have tried all kinds of devices, but so far have not found anything that produces quite the result I want."

"Well," replied Mr. Munnigram, "it seems to me that you have argued yourself pretty near up to the point that I am about to suggest to you. You know, of course, that every one of your customers is probably a reader of the Standard. And you also know that when the Standard readers find that a certain advertiser in the classified columns has a new and interesting advertisement every day, they get the habit of turning to that advertisement to see what he says. Now, isn't there a good suggestion here for you? You won't have the bother and expense of printing bills, envelopes, addressing and mailing. All you have to do is to send a letter to your customers, through the Standard. It will appear in the classified columns the same day. There is positively no better way to send them an interesting message every day. This is offered to you by the classified columns. Don't be satisfied to write just an ordinary message to them. Let them feel that a real human be-

CONFUSION IN STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 21.—After making a brave start today the stock speculation came to a cropper and experienced some confusion in adjusting itself to some new considerations. The miscarriage of the movement which has centered in Reading will be given responsibility generally for the upset in the market, heavy unloading of that stock following the declaration of only the regular quarterly dividend at 2 per cent on the Central Railroad of New Jersey stock. In the Philadelphia stock market, Lehigh Valley Central dividend action. The disappointment in this matter brought home keenly to the speculative mind, the extent to which it had been relying on rumors as vague and ill authenticated as was the one. An official announcement given out yesterday declared that many of the rumors put into circulation concerning this company are grossly exaggerated and likely to mislead the public, following this with specific disclaimers of various recent reports which have been used with effect in the stock market. The stock broke six points in the early market today.

Further inquiry regarding the reports last week of an intended grant of subscription rights by the St. Paul at its annual meeting on last Saturday developed its inherent improbability. Since the money market resources have begun to be constricted, however, the stock market had given evidence of steady movement to sell stocks under cover and to take advantage of all strong sustaining influences. The lesson was clearly illustrated that the leaders of the speculative movement were reducing their commitments and seeking to distribute their holdings at the high prices and realize their profits.

The orderly and skillful manner in which the realizing movement is conducted indicates its exemption from any very urgent pressure. Even today the market gave further evidence of the continued control exercised by the forces back of the market in the sharp rebound in prices which followed the break. With disappointment behind them, the stock market turned to the Pennsylvania directors meeting tomorrow as a hopeful source of inspiration and made conjectures of possible and probable recovery.
